Learning to Dejunk Your Design Layouts

Memorize & apply these four basic principles described in The Non-Designer's Design Book, by Robin Williams.

Proximity:

Principle: Move related items close to each other.

Purpose: To organize the page.

Alignment:

---

Principle: Place your design elements on the page with care. Every item should have a visual connection with something else on the page.

Purpose: To unify the page.

Repetition:

---

Principle: Repeat some aspect of the design throughout the page.

Purposes: To unify the page.
To add visual interest.

Contrast:

Principle: If two items are not similar, then make them different, very different!

Purposes: To create interest on the page.
To help with the organization.

Road Trip Blues

Travel blues got you down up the hill with out a frown go by the side of the hill, where the grass is green and the flowers smell bus stops in New York on a rainy day it is the greatest thing since, pumpkin pie you can't believe how fast is goes fire ways buy your way into a big bag of house mills cow plenty dirty time.

"Road Trip Blues can get you down or it can get you up," says Dr. Hamm.
