CARIN GOLDBERG

Carin Goldberg was born in New York and spent her first years as a graphic designer as a student at Cooper Union School of Art. Her first job was a staff director for CBS TV, CBS records, and Atlanta records. She first opened her own studio in 1982 and expanded her work to numerous things; such as book covers, posters, authorship, brand consulting, and much more! Carin has received many awards. There's the American Institute of Graphic Arts Gold Medal, The Augustus Saint-Gaudens Medal for distinguished achievement in art, The Cooper Union President's Citation, the Art Directors Club Grandmasters Award for Excellence in Education, and the Cynthia Hazen Polsky and Leon Polsky Rome Prize for Design. She is still designing today while teaching at the School of Visual Arts in New York City.
